

Our proposals for Tytherington quarry

Welcome to our public exhibition on our plans to extend limestone extraction within the existing planning boundaries at Tytherington quarry.

This would see the extraction of material from the southern part of the quarry under the existing soil store as well as the deepening of the Woodleaze area.

If approved, it would allow us to make the most of existing reserves, providing around 6 million tonnes of additional limestone, to be worked within the already consented timeframe for the quarry.

Proposed new extraction areas within Tytherington quarry

We're here today to provide information on these proposals, answer your questions and ask for your feedback.